Keratosis pilaris (KP) is a skin condition in which your hair follicles are blocked with a build-up of keratin, causing small, painless bumps, usually on your arms, thighs or bum (though they can occur elsewhere). It's a totally harmless condition but can't be cured, so if the texture or look of your skin bothers you, there are products that can help. The dream combination when it comes to treating KP is exfoliation and hydration. For the former, don't just look for scrubs that offer manual exfoliation with grains or beads, but those that include AHAs, BHAs or PHAs - much as you would when it comes to picking a toner for your face. To max out your exfoliation, apply to dry skin rather than wet and leave on for a few minutes before rinsing off. You may be tempted to overdo it, but only use a scrub two or three times a week because irritation can worsen KP. For hydration, use a daily nourishing, unscented body wash and an exfoliating lotion used twice a day or as directed if you have sensitive skin; you may be better off with a standard moisturiser instead. Exfoliating acids make skin more sensitive to sunlight, so be sure to wear an SPF after use. Read more: We've been using products in all three categories to test their packaging, application and results. Even if you don't have keratosis pilaris, these products will help smooth and soften rough, dry skin and help deal with those pesky ingrown hairs. First up, we love that it's all-in-one and quinshable; you can squeeze out the last bit of product, and the ergonomic silicon applicator is perfect for shower shelf. It offers both manual and chemical exfoliation, combining salicylic and lactic acids and grains, and also contains purifying charcoal and moisturising jojoba and coconut oils. Skin is left softer and smoother, and bumps are visibly less red and raised. {#hasItems} {#items} {#merchant} {#price} Buy now {#hasItems} {#items} {#merchant} {#price} For specialist care: Rating: 9/10 Ameliorate was founded by a woman who wanted to successfully treat her KP, and this lotion is touted as the holy grail of the range. It contains lactic acid to exfoliate the top layer of skin, conditioning sweet almond oil and the brand's LaH6 complex, a combination of six humectants that draw moisture into the skin and help it stay there. It sinks in quickly and leaves skin noticeably softer immediately after use. Over time, bumps are reduced. You get the best value for money with this 500ml bottle, but smaller sizes are available (down to 50ml), so you can test it at a lower cost before you shell out. {#hasItems} {#items} {#merchant} {#price} Buy now {#hasItems} {#items} {#merchant} {#price} Best: Luxury scrub Rating: 8/10 The latest addition to the ExfoliKate range and the brand's first foray into body care in the UK market, this scrub contains manually exfoliating pumice, lactic and salicylic acids and papaya, pineapple and pumpkin enzymes to slough away the build-up of dead skin cells. Honey, aloe and soybean oil help restore the barrier and prevent tightness after use, though we were definitely craving a moisturiser on top. {#hasItems} {#items} {#merchant} {#price} Buy now {#hasItems} {#items} {#merchant} {#price} Best: Sensitive skin Rating: 7/10 This soap-free body wash cleans without stripping moisture or damaging the skin's natural barrier. It lathers beautifully, so you don't need much, meaning it lasts well, and it leaves skin soft and eliminates stiffness and flaky dryness. It's the perfect balancing act for your exfoliator to prevent irritation. {#hasItems} {#items} {#merchant} {#price} Buy now {#hasItems} {#items} {#merchant} {#price} Best: Value moisturiser Rating: 8/10 This contains salicylic and hydroxy acids to gently slough away the top layer of your skin - ideal for treating KP. There is a bigger tub available, which is better value for money, but we prefer the squeezey tube because it's more hygienic and we don't get cream under our fingernails. {#hasItems} {#items} {#merchant} {#price} Best: Value luxury Rating: 10/10 We love when a brilliant brand offers facial quality products for your body; after all, why shouldn't the rest of you get some TLC? This lightweight lotion contains a 10 per cent blend of four AHAs (glycolic, tartaric, lactic and citric). Nourishment comes from plant oils and butters, such as apricot, marula and shea, as well as squalane, niacinamide and hyaluronic acid. These work together to banish dryness, calm irritation and redness, clear congestion and restore a healthy, strong skin barrier. All this for just £21 is incredible value. It also comes in Drunk Elephant's signature white packaging with a pop of colour. {#hasItems} {#items} {#merchant} {#price} Buy now {#hasItems} {#items} {#merchant} {#price} Best: Kit Rating: 9/10 If you don't want to have to make decisions, the luxury results-driven skincare brand Medi8 kit contains both a scrub and a lotion, as well as an exfoliating mitt to amp up your smoothing action. The scrub offers both manual (pumice) and chemical (lactic acid) exfoliation, while the butter and moringa oil give it its creamy texture. Follow it up with the lotion, which delivers exfoliation with lactic acid, salicylic acid and urea and nourishment from moringa butter and squalane. The combination left our skin silky soft but not tacky, and within a week, our bumps were significantly reduced. {#hasItems} {#items} {#merchant} {#price} Buy now {#hasItems} {#items} {#merchant} {#price} Best: Value cleanser Rating: 7/10 You know a cleanser is going to be kind to your skin when it's suitable for use on babies. This body wash contains every good hydrating ingredient we can think of: ceramides, glycerin, hyaluronic acid, triglyceride and squalane. It leaves skin feeling clean and comfortably moisturised. It's also fragrance-free and gynaecologist-approved, so you know it's safe to use everywhere. {#hasItems} {#items} {#merchant} {#price} Buy now {#hasItems} {#items} {#merchant} {#price} Registration is a free and easy way to support our truly independent journalism.
